

2.3.3:- Ratio of Mentor to students for academic and other related issues

Mentoring System

A faculty mentor is assigned to a group of about 30 students to deal with their problems. The mentor maintains record of students by using proper data collection form. The mentor regularly meets and observes the overall growth of student and provides counseling whenever required. In case of any issue related to teaching faced by students, discussions are done with concerned faculty. For any other issues, the discussions are done by concerned department. The mentor also makes sure to maintain a regular parent-teacher conversation. Mentor identifies the learning abilities of their mentees and suggest necessary action programs e.g. requirements of any skill development programs, career counselling sessions from professionals, preparation for various entrance examinations, etc.

Importance of mentoring system

The mentoring system helps to develop a practice where an interaction among the teachers, students and parents takes place. This system helps in taking corrective measures in case of any improvement is required for upgrading the academic performance of the student. The system helps to provide the detailed information about the students including personal information, achievements etc. The mentors meet the mentees fortnightly and invigilate their performance and activities. Mentees are also guided by the mentor on any issue related to personal and college life and periodic meetings are conducted with parents as per requirement.
